Strong views are entertained of

In the wondrous beauty of Bessie May.

His artist instinct had found a prize.

Ah, dark was the hour and black the day,

That he caught the light of her sunny eyes.

Was the same old, stay over again,

The hoisted word and seducing smile,

Had proven too much for a maiden vain,

Who was conscious of not deceit or guile,

He had won her love; and we stood on the strand,

With the angry waters kissing the shore,

And the girls screaming on every hand,

As away from the storm their flight they bore.

I knew that my hopes were blighted and dead,

And the thoughts of my heart I could not say,

Till my pride came forth, and I coldly said,

A last farewell to sweet Bessie May.

It is strange that mankind can hide the death

That lies on their hearts and still seem gay;

And strange that the bloom of our youthful faith

Is forever turned into ashen gray.

Away o'er the sea in another land,

Where the live oak is draped with the Spanish moss.

And the mocking bird, with his pean grand,

Keeps time to the breeze that its branches toss,

I had wandered there, when the war-wolf howled.

Through all the land in his savage mood,

And the demon of battle fiercely scowled,

Where city, and hamlet, and homestead stood.

When we see thousands of all parties whose ambition is to tear away from partisan prejudice, maintaining that political education of the masses is the only safe guard to our institutions, and subservient to such tenets as "Trade is better than war," we are bound to consider that this end is not to be attained by taxation.

"This is, then, what you meant when you said that more than one-half the disease which occurs from Bright's disease, is due to taxation."

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 4, 1885.

The court has decided that when pensioners have deposited their checks in bank that the money can not be attached or garnished by the creditors of the pensioner.

We regret that William Lamont's beautiful poem, "Bessie May," had to be continued until next week on account of lack of quads. It is a rare production, indicative of genuine genius and refined literary taste.

There is a call in another column upon the Hon. Jesse S. Williams urging him to become a candidate for the Legislature, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Mr. Williams made us a good member once, and would no doubt do so again. He is a gentleman of ability and education.

The meeting at the Court-house, Saturday next, should be largely attended. The wishes of the majority of our people should be respected. The people of this voting precinct spoke out in a positive and emphatic manner, at the polls last August, against the sale of intoxicating drinks. The majority was very large, and should be respected. The object of the meeting, next Saturday is to inquire by what right, if any, the Trustees of Hartford set at defiance the wishes of the masses of the people by granting saloon licenses. Let every man and woman in the precinct, who desires to see the expressed wishes of the masses of the people respected, be on hand next Saturday.

Improvement of Rough River.

A petition is being circulated in the city asking our Representative in Congress, Hon. John J. Kleiner, to use his influence in securing an appropriation for the improvement of Rough creek in Kentucky.

Rough creek, or Rough river, more properly stating it—for the stream is navigable for small boats even at this time—is an important tributary of Green river, and the citizens along its banks have large trade relations with this city, and are anxious for increased trade facilities with our merchants and manufacturers. Should the general government purchase the franchise of the Green and Barren river Navigation company and open up Green and Barren rivers to full navigation, the advantages to this city cannot fairly be estimated. The Green river section is properly tributary to this city, and if our citizens exert themselves as they should in helping our neighbors in Kentucky in securing the necessary government aid to open up a free river communication with this city the immense trade and commerce of that section will naturally come to us.

Our fellow citizen, E. G. Ragon, Esq., is actively pushing this matter, and it is hoped his efforts will be seconded by all our merchants and manufacturers.

—Evanesc Journal.

The above is a move in the right direction. We need and must have Rough river made navigable, and every possible effort should be made to secure it. We should at once send an able man to Washington to press the matter through. We nominate Judge A. B. Baird as the proper man, to be sent at once to Washington to aid in securing the necessary appropriation and we hereby start a subscription to defray his expenses, heading it with $50. Who will second the motion and follow suit? Let us strike while the iron is hot; take the tide at the flood, and secure the glorious results of easy and cheap transportation.

The Battle of Shiloh.

The survivors of the brave Seventeenth Kentucky Volunteers will read with interest the following extract from General Grant's article on the battle of Shiloh in the February Century. The open field referred to was right in their front. General Grant says:

"Shiloh was the most severe battle fought at the West during the war, and but few in the East equalled it for hard, determined fighting. I saw an open field, in our possession on the second day, over which the Confederates had made repeated charges the day before, so covered with dead that it would have been possible to walk across the clearing, in any direction, stepping on dead bodies, without a foot touching the ground. On our side Federal and Confederate were mingled together in about equal proportions; but on the remainder of the field nearly all were Confederates. On one part, which had evidently not been plowed for several years, probably because the land was poor, bushes had grown up, some to the height of eight or ten feet. There was not one of these left standing unpeeled by bullets. The smaller ones were all cut down."

STATE NEWS

The Tobacco Association of Woodford county has offered a reward of $500 for the detection of a barn-burner.

Leroy Gray, an old colored gunsmith living in Russellville, died suddenly Sunday morning of lock-jaw.

David Meriwether, for 35 years proprietor of the Meriwether Hotel, Frankfort, Ky., died last Friday after a brief illness in the 73rd year of his age.

John Wolfe, who was serving a ten year sentence for forgery, and who was the leader of the convicts who attempted to escape last August, died in the penitentiary last Friday from the wounds received on that occasion.

The Methodist Standard formerly published at Owensboro, has been moved to Princeton, and is being published by Rev. J. S. Stoebe, presiding elder and Rev. B. Denton, formerly editor of the Butler county News.

John Smith aged 19 years, says the Messenger, was drowned in Rhodes creek, near Birck City, on Monday of last week while skating. Smith was a stepson of John Wimmins.

The Bowling Green Times says the oldest person in Warren county is Mrs. Lucy Romans, who lives in the vicinity of Hadley. She is 99 years of age, in good health, is sprightly and can see as well as most persons at sixty. Her young child is 64 years of age.

A chestnut fence rail made by Abraham Lincoln in 1824, in Hardin county, has been sent to the New Orleans Exposition. It will be placed by the side of the blue coat made by Andy Johnson, when he was a tailor, which was recently sent to New Orleans from Tennessee.

There is now living in Marion county an old woman named Charlotte Oard Lumpkin Shuck, who was born March 17th, 1750, and is therefore in the 135 year of her age. There is a genealogical record now in possession of Mr. James Lumpkin, who is over 70 years old and whose great grandfather, Oard, Charlotte originally belonged.

Ben Green, living in the Pickaway neighborhood, says the Messenger, was killed last Thursday by a falling tree.

Mrs. Jennie P. Cary, wife of Gip T. Cary, of Calhoun, died Sunday night of last week.

The Frankfort Citizen says: The man who boasts that he has never lost an hour's sleep on account of a woman, who swears he never sent a valentine or penned a love letter; spent a month's salary in 'scorting his sweetheart, or made an eternal fool out of himself generally on account of a pair of eyes or a pretty mouth, is the chap who would steal his mother's wedding ring and pawn it for the purpose of lending out money on usury.

Stewart's March.

Gen Stewart, after his victory at Abu Klea Wells on the 17th ult., moved with his army in the direction of Mettemeh, twenty miles southeast, on the Nile. That city was fortified, and he changed his course to a southerly direction, intending to strike the river at another point fifty miles north of Khartoum. On the morning of the 19th Stewart, while marching across the desert five miles above Mettemeh, found himself surrounded by the army of the False Prophet, El Mahdi. The enemy numbered 7,000, while there were only about 1,400 of the British.

Stewart formed his army, at Abu Klea, in a hollow square, and a desperate conflict ensued, lasting all day. The English loss was twenty killed and sixty wounded. The total loss of the enemy was 1,300. Gen Stewart was badly wounded, and so were Col. Burleigh, correspondent of the London Telegraph, and Lords Airey and Somerset. Col. Herbert, special correspondent of the London Post, was among the slain.

Stewart's march is described as the most adventurous and heroic of modern times. Stewart is in communication with Gen. Gordon, whose rescue is the object of his expedition. After the Abu Klea fight Stewart and his men departed into the desert and were not heard of for several days. This caused great anxiety in England; and when he reached a point of safety great joy prevailed instead.

We should at once send an able man to Washington to press the matter through. We nominate Judge A. B. Baird as the proper man, to be sent at once to Washington to aid in securing the necessary appropriation and we hereby start a subscription to defray his expenses, heading it with $50. Who will second the motion and follow suit? Let us strike while the iron is hot; take the tide at the flood, and secure the glorious results of easy and cheap transportation.

—Evanesc Journal.

The above is a move in the right direction. We need and must have Rough river made navigable, and every possible effort should be made to secure it. We should at once send an able man to Washington to press the matter through. We nominate Judge A. B. Baird as the proper man, to be sent at once to Washington to aid in securing the necessary appropriation and we hereby start a subscription to defray his expenses, heading it with $50. Who will second the motion and follow suit? Let us strike while the iron is hot; take the tide at the flood, and secure the glorious results of easy and cheap transportation.

PERSONALS.

Mr. MIT Ward, of Morgantown, was in town several days this week.

Mr. Wm. R. Bonner, of Owensesboro, is visiting his sister, Mrs. John P. Barnett.

Mr. J. B. Wilson, of Sutton, left last week to attend college at South Carrollton.

Rev. G. R. Browder, Presiding Elder, Owensesboro District, M. E. Church, to-night. Give him a full house.

Mr. John Miller and wife, nee Miss Nellie Davis, of McHenry, were visiting Mrs. Miller's parents last Sunday.

Monday was County Court day and despite the roughness of the weather, a large number of the yeomanry of the county was out.

Mrs. W. B. Hayward, of Sulphur Springs, is at Mrs. Moseley's quite sick. We are glad to hear, however, that she is improving.

Ed Davidson, Cromwell, J. M. McDowell, Bell's, Felix, of Horton, McKinley, Bell's Run church are new pupils of Hartford College.

Our young friend, Jacob Small, manager of the Trade Place, returned from an extended visit to relatives in Chicago, Evansville and other points last week.

Miss Nannie Alexander, who has been visiting Misses Lilla and Ada Baird for a week past, returned to her home in South Carrollton, last Saturday.

Mr. T. J. Jones, of Owensesboro, is in town with the view of establishing a circulating library in Hartford. We hope he will succeed. See his advertisement in this issue.

Our popular and handsome agent and correspondent, Mr. Willie May, of Haynesville, was in attendance on our Gift Distribution last Saturday. We are glad to learn from him that he intends leaving the near future.

Ohio county can't afford to lose many such young men as Mr. May.

Mr. John T. Martin, representing the wholesale dealers of Swan, Abraham J. E. Pendleton wife, and daughter Tu. Z. Wayne Griffin and wife and Miss Mary Taylor, of Hartford, Wm. G. Duncan and wife, of McHenry, and Misses Fannie Brotherton and Agnes Craig, of Owensesboro, form a party for the Southern Exposition at New Orleans to-morrow. We wish them well on their voyage.

Dr. L. A. King, of Calhoun, has been at the Hartford since a day or two this week interviewing our merchants. Dr. Martin is from this country and we wish him success in his field of labor. He will have the pleasure of a call from him while here.

Captain Sam K. Cox and wife, Dr. J. E. Pendleton wife, and daughter Tu. Z. Wayne Griffin and wife and Miss Mary Taylor, of Hartford, Wm. G. Duncan and wife, of McHenry, and Misses Fannie Brotherton and Agnes Craig, of Owensesboro, form a party for the Southern Exposition at New Orleans to-morrow. We wish them well on their voyage.

In order to reduce the worsted dress goods stock at Anderson's Bazaar, great reductions have been made and you would do well to take advantage of present prices.

Do not buy brittle and rotten nails, when you can buy a good clinch steel nail at Williams Brothers at the same price. When you use them you will have no other.

The Herald's liberality to its patrons should surely be appreciated. The premiums given away last Saturday are worth in the aggregate. ONE THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED AND SIXTY FIVE DOLLARS. This is no imaginary estimate, but the actual ordinary selling value of the articles.

The Steamer Ross Belle arrived last Sunday from Livermore with a heavy load of freight—principally corn. The Ross Belle had been lying at Livermore several days previous to this trip on account of ice. She left Monday for Livermore where another load of freight awaits her, taking down several loads of tobacco.

The Caneyville Academy will open on Monday next, under the auspices of Prof. John O'Flaherty, assisted by a competent corps of teachers. Miss Claggett and Miss Hazel, two charming young ladies of Grayson county, are engaged to assist Prof. O'Flaherty in the school labors at Caneyville. The former, an accomplished musician, will take charge of the music and other departments, and the latter, a young lady of splendid attainments, will have charge of the primary and intermediate classes. This school is bound to be successful.

In the neighborhood of Col. Ben Johnson, in MeLean county, has been found the oldest terrapin on record. Mr. Sam Taylor cut his name and date on its shell in 1810. In 1840 Col. Ben Johnson, while making one of his many surveys, found the terrapin and examined it carefully. He and his party spoke of the fact, at the time as one which had attained its majority. In 1857 Col. Sam Johnson, then clerk of the McLean Circuit Court, caught this terrapin and inscribed his name by that of Sam Taylor's with the date "1857." The terrapin was often seen up to 1860, after which date it disappeared and was seen no more until last November, when Col. Ben Johnson found it near the place where he first examined it in 1840. He found the name and date both distinct. The frosts of so many winters have given its horny covering a tinge of gray but it moves as erect and with a step as elastic as it did 45 years ago, when Col. Johnson first discovered it. It has been sent to New Orleans, and placed in the Kentucky geological display.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Mr. B. F. Gray purchased about fifty head of two and three year old steers in the vicinity of Hartford last week, and left with them last Friday for Owensesboro, where he will have them fed. The price paid was a fraction over three cents.

DR. J. BRADFIELD: Dear Sir—We have for the past fifteen years handled your Remedies, both at wholesale and retail, and in no instance, so far as our knowledge extends, have they failed to give satisfaction. We have sold more of your Regulator than of all the other similar remedies combined. We regard Pryor's Pile Ointment one of the best; and Mother's Friend we know to be true to its distinctive title, "the Mother's Best Friend." Yours truly,

To permit yourself and family to "Suffer!" with sickness when it can be prevented and cured so easily with Hop Bitters!!!

Having experienced a great deal of "Trouble!" from indigestion, so much so that I came near losing my life!

My trouble always came after eating my food

However light,
And digestible,

For two or three hours at a time I had to go through the most excruciating pains, and the only way I ever got relief was by throwing up all my stomach contained. No one can conceive the pains that I had to go through, until

At last?

I was taken so that for three weeks I lay in bed and could eat nothing. My sufferings were so great that I called two doctors to give me something that would stop the pain; their efforts were no good to me.

At last I heard a good deal about your Hop Bitters!

And determined to try them for a while—in four hours I took the contents of One! Next day I was out of bed, and have not seen a Sick Hour.

From the same cause since.

I have recommended it to hundreds of others. You have no such advocate as I am."—Geo. Kendall, Allison, Boston, Mass.

COLUMBUS ADVOCATE, TEXAS, April 21, '83. Dear Editor: I have tried your Hop Bitters, and find they are good for any complaint. The best medicine I ever used in my family. H. TALENER

* * * None genuine without a bunch of green hops on the white label. Shan all the vise, poisonous stuff with Hop's Hoops' their name.

Fresh groceries at J. L. Miller's.

Three new pupils at the College this week.

A few more ladies' cheap cloaks at Anderson's Bazaar.

Canned goods, every kind, cheap at the Red Front.

Flour, confectionaries, groceries &c., just received at J. L. Miller's.

Big bargains in bleached cottons at Anderson's Bazaar.

Cabbage, celery and sweet potatoes at the Red Front Friday.

Thirty barrels of Igglehart flour at Thomas Brothers for $4 per barrel.

Red Front wants chickens, turkeys, eggs, butter and vegetables.

You can buy worsted dress goods cheaper than ever at Anderson's Bazaar.

Williams Brothers are the leading blacksmiths of the county. Try them and be convinced.

Left in our office about a week ago a pocket knife. Owner will please call and get it.

A lot of extra size coats and pants made of the best jeans, just received at Anderson's Bazaar.

Williams Brothers have stoves, plows, wagons, groceries, hardware, tinware, woodenware and mill feed.

You ought to see the ten cent bleached cotton at Anderson's Bazaar—the best goods you ever saw for the money.

In order to reduce the worsted dress goods stock at Anderson's Bazaar, great reductions have been made and you would do well to take advantage of present prices.

Beda Notes.

BEDA, Jan. 25, 1885.

Your paper needs a good correspondent from this point and I have deferred writing with the hope that some of our literary neighbors, who are more competent, might assume the work.

Deputy Sheriff, L. P. Loney, through solicitation of friends, has been pressing our people on the subject of education at the church last Friday night week. Though Mr. Loney's experience as a lecturer is quite incipient, his remarks were pointed, earnest, and fraught with salient truths and sound logic, culled from a number of years' practical experience in education.

Mr. Alney Tichenor has just closed his school here and left for his home near McHenry. Though Mr. Tichenor came among us as a comparative stranger and tender in years, to grapple with the critical responsibilities and untried duties of the school-room, he leaves behind and friends well pleased; and we will entertain for a long time the hope that the smile of success and good fortune may and must to his future in what e'er may be his chosen avocation.

Mr. Daniel Hicks while carpentering on a house for Mr. James Park, near Clinton, a few days since, fell from a scaffold and fractured two ribs and contused the liver, lobe of his left lung very unpleasantly. Dr. Hoover reports his progress as favorable, considering the extent of the injury.

At eleven o'clock last night, when our quiet burg was wrapped in peaceful slumber and dreamland's somber arms were clasped about us, Mr. Linsey Benjaminsen with bell and trumpet sounded somberous peals "upon the midnight air," which bade Morpheus depart and saluted the auditorium with a thrill of commanding surprise and alarm that many here had never experienced before. The first thought that entered our calvarium was "fire." As the bell tolled, the flames of terror and alarm thunders from every direction, pointing to the character of the trouble, as no evidence of a conflagration were to be seen. Robbers! Robbers! robbers! No, but one moment did that noisy companion, which has the honor of a position at the top of a lofty pole, cease its nocturnal ringing; in midst of the alarm, it was discovered that the sign of a threatening catastrophe were invisible, not one in the assembly being able even to produce satisfactory evidence of a night-mare having been in the burg for weeks past. But this had no effect upon the bell, the darned old thing banged away as though it was serving out its appointed task.

The way by which the bell had always been operated had disappeared, and with this fact, no cause of its motion was visible, and here we were standing by a mysterious "institution" at the dead hour of night that was making enough racket to wake the snakes or disgust a deaf mule. We were solemn and serious, but the alarm of suspicion, and finally the discovery of a twine string was made which had attachment to the bell, extending over the house therefrom into an apple orchard perhaps fifty or seventy-five yards distant. Oh yes, we understand the modus operandi now. The twine was cut and the bells were heard to ring again, "upon the midnight air."

We know of any one wishing to take lessons in mechanical engineering send him to Bedda and we'll give him a course of experimental work upon Mr. B's bell with the boys.

Quite a number serious cases of sickness in the neighborhood at this writing.

Mr. Thos. Hamelton is dangerously ill with a typhoid fever. The boy and girl have been very sick with the same trouble, but are mending.

Mrs. Richard Webb is very low with organic heart disease.

Thomas Bennett, (Tea Bee), is at his home here, being just in from McLean county, where he has been teaching penmanship.

W. C. Bennett has returned to his home from Hartford College.
